NEWS RELEASE

Beat the End-of-Year Donation Rush
Avoid the lines and donate today

GREENSBORO, NC – 'Tis the season for giving. Goodwill Industries of Central North Carolina, Inc. (Triad Goodwill) wants to help you avoid the end-of-year donation rush, by encouraging you to donate early. Triad Goodwill operates 22 donation centers attached to their retail stores in Alamance, Caswell, Guilford, Randolph, and Rockingham Counties, and three weekend-only donation sites in Greensboro. The week between Christmas and New Year's Eve is the busiest at their donation centers, so Triad Goodwill recommends donors avoid the long lines and donating before Christmas.

In addition to helping you get a tax write-off for 2018 and cleaning out your closets, your donations make a difference here in our community. Triad Goodwill sells donated goods in their stores to support their mission of providing free and low-cost job training and placement services. In their last fiscal year, Goodwill served 13,931 job seekers and helped place 2,731 people in jobs. In fact, 85 cents of every dollar earned in Triad Goodwill stores supports that mission. Donating to Triad Goodwill is a win-win.

Have a large donation, including furniture? Triad Goodwill will pick it up – FOR FREE! End-of-year pick-up slots are filling up quickly, so schedule yours today at TriadGoodwill.vonigo.com. Pickups require at least five large bags or boxes of donations or at least one piece of furniture.

Your donations also help the environment. By donating, you helped Triad Goodwill keep more than 9 million pounds of product out of local landfills each year. That includes clothing, household items, computers, electronics, furniture, and more.
